People in the city of Munich have spoken their mind. They don't want to hold the Winter Olympics in 2022. To those cities that are still fight for the chance, (35). The Olympics usually brings lots of benefits to the host city, the games often bring many visitors, and the visitors bring money. So, why do people in Munich say no to the Winter Olympics?

The Olympics is a different story for people in Munich. For them, the world's biggest sports festival would cause some troubles. There would be lots of building work before the Games and during the Games, there would be lots of traffic problems. To the people in Munich, life during the Game would become terrible and the nature would be hurt. And (36). Munich held the 1972 Summer Olympics. And they paid heavy price for that. However, these prices that Munich paid do not worry the cities that are in the race to get the 2022 Winter Olympics. (37), if Munich said no to the Olympics-their chances of getting the Games would become higher.

Do you like watching scary movies? Or do you like reading ghost stories? Do you want to go to haunted house to test if you are scared or not? If the answers are yes, then you might like to feel scared, but why? A doctor has found the reason.

For many years, Dr. Lin has been studying the feeling of fear. To understand fear, he visited several haunted places. He even set up a haunted house on Halloween. Many people volunteered to the haunted house and agreed to be a part of the doctor's study.

The doctor studied these people's feelings and brain activities before and after going to the haunted house. Though the haunted house was so scary that it "made their hair stand on end." some people came out feeling happier and less tired. The doctor even found out that getting scared is like doing exercise. The feeling of fear helps people lower brain activities, and then people can be less worried.
