On May 21st in Canada, a sea lion pulled a little girl into the sea. Only a minute before, the family fed the sea lion in a port.
 The girl sat near the water and the sea lion bit her dress and pulled her into the water. The sea lion was not trying to kill her, it did not want to eat her, and it probably just wanted some food from her. The girl's father quickly jumped into the water and saved her. No one was hurt.

When we feed wild animals, it makes them stop being afraid of us. Once they lose their fear, they will know we are pretty weak and they can just take everything they want from us. They become very aggressive to us, and they will attack us for food.
 These animals may look cute and friendly, but they truly not. They are wild animals with claws, sharp teeth and strong bodies.
 There's a reason for those 'Don't feed the animals' signs!

Immigrants are everywhere on the news these days. It's very easy to travel around now and so their number becomes larger and larger in the last twenty years. People leave their home countries for many reasons. Some people leave because they want a better life. Others do it because of war, famine or religious persecution. They can't take anything with them and have to start a new life in a strange land. It must be very difficult for them to do this. When immigrants go to a new country, they also take with them their cultures, customs and their foods. Immigrants give diversity in many areas to their new countries.

There are many famous immigrants in history. Two very famous scientists moved to America from Europe. Albert Einstein was from Germany and Nikola Tesla was from Serbia. Steve Jobs' father was from Syria. Many foods we eat today are also from immigrants. Italians brought pizza, the Japanese brought sushi, and we have spicy foods thanks to the Thai and Indian immigrants.

Immigrants may have disadvantages, such as higher cost of health care and education, disagreements between different religions and cultures. But they really give their new countries a richer and more colorful culture and a chance to reborn.

Although some clothes were popular a long time ago, they are still at stores. In fashion industry, this is very typical. Right now online shops and clothing stores like H&M are selling old-fashioned clothes, and they were last popular in the 1990s. Velvet, a kind of soft and fuzzy material, comes back again, and people now often use it to make dress and skirts. We can also find one-piece garments, a kind of bodysuit, about everywhere these days. These things may be new to today's young people, but they are just old news to their parents.

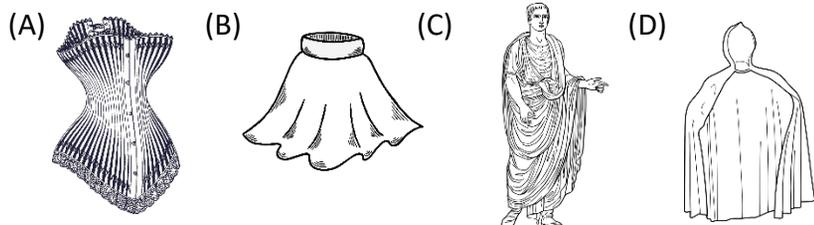

There is also another trend, the corset, coming back. Women in the 1800s and early 1900s used them heavily to give their bodies a beautiful shape. Men used them to make their waists smaller. These days, celebrities like Lady Gaga and Madonna are wearing them and making them popular again. So don't throw your old clothes away; they'll probably be in fashion again in 10 years.
