In the city of Barcelona in Spain, some kids have a special way of traveling to school. They call it the "bike bus." In fact, it's not a bus at all. It's a long parade of bicycles riding through the city streets. As it passes their homes, kids join the group. Then, they leave the group as it passes their school. In the beginning, only five children participated. Now, there are hundreds of riders.

The activity happens every Friday morning. Because there are so many bicycles, the children can't fit on sidewalks or in bicycle lanes. They ride in the street, with policemen stopping traffic so they can pass safely. Even some parents ride the "bike bus" to work on Friday mornings! "The best part of the bike bus," says Maria, an elementary school student, "is that we ride along and pick up my friends and we ride together."
