14. M: Hi, Tina. Are you still in the US? Can you help me buy a pair of shoes?

W: Sorry, Mike. I'm not in the US now. I'm in Japan. Maybe you can ask Nancy to help you. She is still there.

M: Really? That's great! I will ask her for help. Thank you.

W: No problem.

Q: Which is true?

15. W: Hi, Ian. Do you have any plans for the weekend?

M: Yes, I want to stay home this weekend.

W: Come on! Let's go out and have some fun.

M: I'm sorry. After working so hard for five days, I just want to sit comfortably on my couch and enjoy some movies during the weekend.

Q: What is Ian's plan for the weekend?

16. M: Nina, I'm going to the supermarket. Would you like to come with me?

W: No, I'm busy right now. Could you help me buy some fruit?

M: Sure. What do you need?

W: I want some grapes, papayas, guavas, and strawberries.

M: Why do you need so many kinds of fruits?

W: I'm going to make some juice and cakes for tomorrow's party.

Q: What can we learn from the dialogue?

17. G: Benny, we still need one player to join our team, but the card game is just around the corner. What can we do?

B: Don't worry. I have a good idea.

G: What's the idea?

B: Because it's important to find someone with experience, we can make a small card game test and have all our classmates do it.

G: I see. Then we can invite the best player to join us.

B: That's right.

Q: What's the boy's idea?

18. W: Hey, watch out! There's a hole!

M: Oh, thank you so much. I didn't notice the hole.

W: You should walk more carefully. A girl fell in it this morning.

M: Oh no, that's terrible! I'll be more careful next time.

Q: What happened to the man?
