Sometimes, we all have trouble communicating with other people. This is a very common problem. Some people are shy. Other people have no ability to think of interesting conversation subjects. If you have communication problem, don't worry! We can teach you two tips, and you can find that making interesting communication is easy.

First, you have to know that questions are better than comments. Don't say, "I like your shoes." It's better to say, "Where did you get your shoes?" This will keep the conversation going.

Second, avoid private topics. Don't talk about the age or health of the others. In the beginning, just talk about fun things like traveling or weather.

The two tips are very important. If you keep them in mind, it might be easy for you to make new friends.
