The Ocean Cleanup is a special organization, and it helps to keep our oceans clean and safe for all the creatures. A Dutch inventor, Boyan Slat, started The Ocean Cleanup. He wanted to find a way to take out the trash from the sea. Sometimes people throw garbage into the ocean, and it can hurt sea animals and make the water dirty.

It is not easy to remove trash from the sea.

The Ocean Cleanup uses big machines to collect the trash from the water. These machines move with the ocean currents, so they can catch a lot of garbage. They are like big nets, and they can catch the plastic bottles and bags floating in the water.

The Ocean Cleanup is working hard to make the ocean cleaner and safer for all the marine animals, like fish, turtles, and whales. Let's do our part to help The Ocean Cleanup in their mission to keep our oceans clean and beautiful!

Brian: Vicky, do you know any farmers?

Vicky: Yeah, my grandparents are farmers. They live in the countryside and have been farming for a long time.

Brian: Oh, cool! I don't know any farmers. Everyone I know lives in the city.

Vicky: In Taiwan, most farmers are older, around 60 years old. Many of them will retire soon, and there won't be enough young farmers to take over.

Brian: Really? What will happen when they retire?

Vicky: Good question. Some farmers invite workers from other countries to help on their farms.

Brian: Interesting. Are there any other ideas?

Vicky: Yeah, using drones is another one. Drones are like flying robots. People can control them from far away. They can move faster than people and reach many places easily.

Brian: How do drones help on the farm?

Vicky: Well, the researchers are trying them in the fields. They can attach helpful insects to the plants, and these insects will help reduce harmful insects.

Brian: Wow, that's smart! How long does it take?

Vicky: For people, it may take one or two hours for a field, but drones can do it in just 5 to 10 minutes.

Brian: That's fast! Do you think drones will do all the work on farms?

Vicky: Maybe not all, but they can definitely help a lot.

Brian: It's amazing how technology is changing farming!

Vicky: Yeah, it sure is! (改編 ICRT News)

In a year, there are some special days about protecting the environment. They remind people around the world to take care of our planet – Earth. Let's learn from these days and why they're important!

Earth Day happens every year on April 22nd. In the day, people do activities like planting trees or cleaning up parks to help take care of the Earth. We can also learn about things like recycling and saving energy to help the environment.

On May 31st, we celebrate World No Tobacco Day. Tobacco is a plant that's harmful to both people and the environment. When people smoke cigarettes, it creates pollution in the air and hurts the Earth. This special day teaches us why it's important to avoid using tobacco and how we can stay healthy.

Earth Hour happens on the last Saturday of March. During this time, people turn off their lights for one hour. It's a way to remind us to save energy and think about how we use electricity. Turning off lights for just one hour can make a big difference in helping the Earth.

World Car Free Day is on September 22nd. This day encourages people to find other ways to get around instead of using cars. Walking, riding bikes, or taking buses are some great options. By using cars less, we can help keep the air clean and reduce traffic jams.
